

Paradisos del Sol produces artisanal wines in Washington State's Yakima Valley. Paul Vandenberg and Barbara Sherman, the proprietors, have over 25 years experience as Washington wine growers. Our name is a tribute to the sweat and toil of the Valley's Hispanic farm workers, who are transforming desert into gardens.

Raised as an organic gardener, Paul's focus is on holistic, wholesome, and healthful wines. Wines that make music in the glass, wines that sing of where they were grown, wines of distinction, wines that you can afford to drink! Our family is the largest consumer of Paradisos del Sol's wines so the requirement of a high yumminess factor is of great importance. If it doesn't delight, it doesn't go into our bottles. Note: Our bottles are all clear glass to ensure easy recycling.

Paradisos uses traditional methods to transform Yakima Valley grapes into distinctive wines. The majority of our wines spend considerable time in barrels. Our wines are often unusual styles in the American marketplace, such as our dry barrel-fermented and barrel-aged Rosé Paradiso.

Our wines are made slowly, given that magic ingredient of time. Slow wine for slow food with kith and kin. Currently available are Rosé Paradiso, Oyster White, Riesling, Under 10 Buck Red, Paradisos Red, Cabernet Sauvignon, Port Paradiso, Zort, and Angelica MRS.

We promise a unique experience and guarantee our wine. Our wines are only available through our tasting room, which is open daily, year round, from 11-6.
